

ROLEX & THE CHAMPIONSHIPS, WIMBLEDON

Rolex first partnered with The Championships,
Wimbledon, in 1978. The world's oldest tennis tournament is the temple of lawn tennis and of the original game.
It is also where athletes become legends.

A PARTNERSHIP STANDING THE TEST OF TIME

Rolex commenced its long-standing partnership with tennis in 1978 when it became the Official Timekeeper of The Championships, Wimbledon, a role it continues to perform today. Over the years, the brand has extended its involvement and counts among its Testimonees such luminaries of the sport as Rod Laver, Chris Evert, Björn Borg, Roger Federer and Garbiñe Muguruza.

Rolex is the Official Timekeeper and one of the major partners of all leading tennis tournaments. The story began at The Championships, Wimbledon, in 1978 when the brand first became involved with a sport capturing the world's attention.

The All England Lawn Tennis & Croquet Club in south-west London has hosted The Championships since the inaugural edition in 1877. The world's oldest tennis tournament, Wimbledon is the home of the sport and its grass court temple.

THE TEMPLE OF TENNIS

TRADITION

Above the players' entrance to Centre Court – which seats 15,000 – lines from the poem If by Rudyard Kipling read:

*If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same*

These verses encapsulate the event's philosophy because, at Wimbledon, the greatness of the sport lies not in victory but in the humility and perseverance of the champions.

THE SCENE OF MAJOR SHOWDOWNS

The intensity of Wimbledon finals on Centre Court means they live on in memory as extraordinary moments of tennis history. Epic battles between the likes of Rod Laver and John Newcombe, Björn Borg and John McEnroe, Chris Evert and Martina Navrátilová, Roger Federer and Rafael Nadal have written the legend of Wimbledon and world tennis.

This unprecedented level of sporting excellence struck a chord with the values intrinsic to Rolex. A natural partnership developed at all the major tennis events, now spanning almost 45 years.

The 2022 edition of The Championships, Wimbledon, marks the centenary of Centre Court at its current home in the Church Road grounds.
